All other international payments with currency exchange

A foreign currency transfer occurs when a transfer is made in a currency that is not the recipient's local currency (for example, sending USD to the United Kingdom). In this case, the applicable fees will be:

- 0.5% for all transfers (to another person within Brazil or internationally).

The fair use limit (BRL$25,000 per month) also applies to this type of transfer. After this limit, an additional fair use fee of 0.5% is applied.

Card Transfers

Card transfers will be charged 7.50 BRL + 0.8% for all plans.

Exchange

Whenever you make a foreign exchange transaction using Revolut, we use simple and transparent pricing:

- You get the real exchange rate;
- If applicable, you see any additional fees (if one applies); and
- You see the total cost, including applicable taxes, with no hidden mark-ups or surprises.

This pricing applies to exchanges in money currencies. We've explained it in more detail below.

BRL to Other Currencies

Every time you exchange BRL to other currencies, the fees applicable will be:

- 3.5% IOF (Financial Transactions Tax);
- 0.6% spread if during business-hours (Monday to Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Brazilian time for USD, and Monday to Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Brazilian time for other foreign currencies); and
- Outside business hours, an additional fee of 0.2% will be charged.

Other Currencies to BRL

Every time you exchange to other currencies to BRL, the fees applicable will be:

- 0.38% IOF (Financial Transactions Tax);
- 0.6% spread during business hours (Monday to Friday, 9 AM to 6 PM Brazilian time); and
- Outside business hours, an additional fee of 0.2% will be charged.

Between Other Currencies

The only time you will pay fees when exchanging currencies other than BRL is if you make any exchange on the weekends (thereby incurring the weekend fees) and if you exceed the exchange fair usage limit (BRL25,000 per month). If you do, you will be charged an exchange fair usage fee on any exchange above the limit.

Then, when you exchange between Other Currencies, the fees applicable will be:

- Free during the week, limited to BRL25,000 per month (fair use limit);
- If you exchange during the weekend (Friday afternoon to Sunday), a weekend fee of 1.0% will apply; and
- If you exceed the BRL25,000 per month limit, an additional 0.5% fee on the excess amount will apply.

In all cases, any fees (if applicable) will be shown separately in the app, along with the total cost, before making an exchange. You can check it out, compare it with our competitors, and decide if you like the overall price—we think you'll like it.

Exchanging cryptocurrencies

Whenever you exchange crypto using Revolut, we use our pricing formula: "rate + fee = total cost."

The rate we use for crypto is defined in our Terms and Conditions for Crypto. It's set by us, based on the rate offered by crypto exchanges, and it has a variable rate (meaning it constantly changes). You can always view the current crypto exchange rate in the Revolut app.

When you exchange crypto, we will charge the following fees:

A fee of 1.0% of the value of your crypto transaction or the equivalent of USD 1.00 (one U.S. dollar), whichever is greater. This fee amount is based on your country of residence.

As always, we'll show you the rate, fee, and total cost in the Revolut app before making any exchange.

Remember, your crypto exchanges count toward the fair use exchange limit (BRL25,000 per month).
