

Effective date: 3 April 2026

At a glance: how we handle your personal data

- What we collect: we collect information you give us (like your ID documents and financial details), information from your device (like location or IP address) and information from others (such as credit reference agencies). We also create new information about you based on how you use the Revolut Business app.
- How we use it: we use your personal data to run our services, stop fraud, make decisions about whether you're eligible to use certain products, improve our products, and send you relevant offers (where allowed).
- Who we share it with: we share your personal data with companies that help us provide our products and services, credit reference agencies, people or companies you send money to or receive money from, and government agencies (if the law requires it).
- Your rights: you have control over your personal data. For example, you can ask for a copy of it, ask us to delete it or ask us to stop using it (especially for marketing) by contacting dpo@revolut.com. You can also manage your privacy preferences directly in-app.
- Our promises: we will always keep your personal data safe. We will never sell your personal data. We will always try to give you as much control as possible over how we use your personal data.

1. About us

When you use Revolut Business, Revolut, or the company that holds the Revolut Business account you use, will be responsible for processing your personal data. Either Revolut, or the Revolut Business account holder company, is referred to as the 'controller' of your personal data.

For more details on whether Revolut or the company managing your Revolut Business account is a controller of your personal data, please see the What personal data do you collect about me? section below.

Revolut offers products and services through different companies.

If you are in the European Economic Area (EEA), Revolut Bank UAB is the primary controller of your personal data even if you are receiving services from one of its branches

2. Why do I need to read this notice?

We will collect your personal data when you use:

- our website at www.revolut.com
- the Revolut Business app
- any of the services available to you through the Revolut Business app or website

We may also collect your personal data from other people or companies. We explain how this can happen in more detail at What personal data do you collect about me? section below.

When we say 'personal data', we mean information which:

- we know about you (for example, if you are a director of a company applying for a Revolut Business account, or are able to give us instructions about a Revolut Business account, we may ask you to provide identification documents)
- can be used to personally identify you (for example, a combination of your name and postal address)

Data protection laws do not apply to information about legal entities (for example, limited liability companies). However, they do apply to people. When we provide Revolut Business products, we process personal data of the individuals authorised to set the account up and give us instructions about the account. We also may process personal data about other employees and customers of the company that receives Revolut Business products.

If more than one person is authorised to give instructions on a Revolut Business account, references in this notice to 'you' and 'your' will mean any, or all, of those people. When we refer to a 'company', we mean the company that holds the Revolut Business account.

This notice explains what personal data we collect, how we use it, and your rights if you want to change how we use your personal data. This notice only applies to personal data. It does not apply to company information.

Sometimes, we may also provide you with 'just in time' privacy explanations in the Revolut Business app. When you use a new Revolut Business product or service for the first time, these explanations will help you to understand what specific personal data Revolut collects, uses or shares about you for that product or service.

We may provide privacy notices in languages other than English. If there are any discrepancies between other language versions and the English language versions, the English language version is authoritative.

If you have concerns about how we use your personal data, you can contact dpo@revolut.com.

3. What personal data do you collect about me?

The types of personal data we collect depend on how you use Revolut Business. When you use Revolut Business, you can be:

- a representative, employer or an employee that is responsible for applying for and / or running a Revolut Business account on behalf of a company or registered sole trader (for example, you can give instructions on the account), which we call an 'Account Owner' or 'Authorised User'
- an employee of a company that has a Revolut Business account, and your employer has invited you to use its Revolut Business account, which we call an 'Authorised Cardholder'

If you are:

- an Account Owner or Authorised User, we are the 'controller' of your personal data when we provide you with Revolut Business

- an Authorised Cardholder, the company that holds the Revolut Business account you're using is usually the main 'controller' of your personal data. If you have questions about how your personal data is processed by Revolut for that company, please reach out to them. In some cases, Revolut may also be a controller of your personal data. This can happen, for example, if we send you direct marketing messages or ask you for identification documents and 'selfie' photos or videos for Know-Your-Business ('KYB') checks
- a customer of a company that holds a Revolut Business account, that company is a 'controller' of your personal data. Please contact it if you have any questions about how your personal data is processed by Revolut Business on its behalf
- a shareholder, director or beneficial owner of a company that holds a Revolut Business account, we may process your personal data (even if you do not use the Revolut Business account yourself) to comply with our regulatory obligations (like knowing who owns the company)
- a prospective Revolut Business customer who has not yet applied for a Revolut Business account, but may have received information about Revolut Business, we provide you with a separate privacy notice available here.

	or services, information about you, fraud risk scores, and information relating to your transactions. We have explained more in the Do you run credit checks on me? section below. When you ask us to, we'll also collect personal data from your third party accounting software or accounts you, or your company, have with third party financial institutions (for example, when you create a linked account by activating Open Banking in the Revolut Business app).
Information from websites or social media	We may collect information about you if you make it publicly available on websites, social media websites or apps. Publicly available information from social media websites or apps may also be provided to us when we conduct general searches on you. We do this as part of our KYB checks and to comply with our anti-money laundering or sanctions screening obligations.
Information from publicly available sources	We collect, or may ask you to provide, personal data from publicly available sources, such as media stories, online registers or directories, and websites for enhanced due diligence checks, security searches and KYB purposes.

4. What is your legal basis for using my personal data?

We must have a legal basis (a valid legal reason) for using your personal data. Our legal basis will be one of the following:

- Keeping to our contracts and agreements with you

We need certain personal data to provide our services and cannot provide them without this personal data.

- Legal obligations

In some cases, we have a legal responsibility to collect and store your personal data (for example, under anti-money laundering laws we must hold certain information about our customers).

- Legitimate interests

We sometimes collect and use your personal data because we have a legitimate interest to use it and this is reasonable when balanced against your human rights and freedoms.

- Substantial public interest

Where we process your personal data, or your sensitive personal data (sometimes known as special category personal data), to adhere to government regulations or guidance, such as our obligation to prevent fraud.

- Vital interests

We may need to use your personal data to protect your life or the life of another person (for example, in a medical emergency or where we have concerns about potential self-harm).

- Consent

Where you've agreed to us collecting and using your personal data, including your sensitive personal data, for example when you have ticked a box to indicate that you are happy for us to use your personal data in a certain way.

We explain more about how we use your personal data in the How do you use my personal data? section below.

The How do you use my personal data? section below explains the lawful bases we rely on for various activities. The specific legal basis for processing your personal data, including sensitive personal data, depends on local regulations and the context of data collection. Whenever possible, we will provide a brief privacy explanation at the time of data collection to clarify the specific lawful basis for collecting and using your personal data.

5. How do you use my personal data?

Explore the ways in which we may use your personal data using this table:

What we use your personal data for	Our legal basis for using your personal data
Checking and confirming your identity Whenever you sign up with Revolut Business, we'll use your personal data to check your identity (as part of our KYB process). This may include facial scan data (known as 'biometric data'), or voice data, extracted from	• Legal obligations • Substantial public interest (to verify your identity using biometric data)

any photo or video you submit. We do this to keep you and other Revolut Business customers safe by: • confirming you are who you say you are • preventing fraudsters getting access to the relevant Revolut Business account • making sure you're not somebody we've previously told we cannot provide services to We will also check your identity at other times, for example, if your identification documents expire and we need you to update them. If you register a new device to access your Revolut Business account or try to chat with customer support while not logged in, we'll also need to verify that it's really you.	• Consent (where we are required to collect your consent by law) • Legitimate interests (to ensure we do not provide services to customers who have previously breached our Business Terms)
Providing our services Whenever you apply for or use a Revolut Business product or service, we'll use your personal data to: • decide whether or not to approve your application • meet our contractual and legal obligations relating to any Revolut Business products or services you use (for example making payments into and out of your Revolut Business account) • provide you with loyalty benefits and products (such as RevPoints, eSIMs, airport lounge access) if these are part of your Revolut Business plan • enable any Payment Links relating to your Revolut Business account (including processing personal data of non-Revolut customers) to facilitate payments to or from your account • carry out confirmation of payee checks (where we confirm the name of the recipient to the payer) to ensure payments are sent to the correct person	• Keeping to contracts and agreements between you and us • Legitimate interests (we need to be efficient about how we meet our obligations and we want to provide you with good products and services) • Legal obligations

• help you understand your, or your company's, Revolut Business usage and spending behaviour (for example, by providing you with spending insights) • show the geographic location of your business, or the company that holds a Revolut Business account, to Revolut customers • provide you with customer support services. We may record and monitor any communications between you and us, including phone calls, to maintain appropriate records, check your instructions, analyse, assess and improve our services, and for training and quality control purposes
Protecting against fraud We use your personal data to check your identity, protect against fraud, keep to financial crime laws and to confirm that you are eligible to use our services. We also use it to help us better understand your company's financial circumstances and manage fraud risks related to your Revolut Business account. We're always working to protect our customers from fraud. To keep our anti-fraud measures effective, we can't always share all the details about how we prevent fraud. However, we will always give you general information about our efforts to keep you safe.	• Legitimate interests (to develop and improve how we deal with financial crime and meet our legal responsibilities) • Substantial public interest (to authenticate your identity using biometric data) • Legal obligations • Consent (where we are required to collect your consent by law)
Marketing and providing new products and services that might interest you We use your personal data to do the following: • provide you with information about other products and services we offer that are similar to those you have already used (or asked about, where allowed by law) • if you agree, provide you with information about our partners' promotions or offers which we think you might be interested in • if you agree, allow our partners and other organisations to provide you with information	• Legitimate interests (to send business-to-business marketing, develop our products and services, ensure our marketing is relevant to your interests, and to be efficient about how we meet our legal and contractual duties) • Consent (where we are legally required to get your

about their products or services • hold promotions and competitions for our products or services • measure or understand the effectiveness of our marketing and advertising, and provide relevant advertising to you • ask your opinion about our products or services. We might publish your review but will make sure that you cannot be identified. Remember, you can ask us to stop sending you marketing information (the How do you use my personal data for marketing? section below explains how to do this).	consent for business-to-business marketing)
To keep our services up and running We use your personal data to manage our website and the Revolut Business app, (including troubleshooting, data analysis, testing, research, statistical and survey purposes), and to make sure that content is presented in the most effective way for you and your device. We also use your personal data to: • authenticate you as an authorised user of our services when necessary (for example, if you contact our customer support or social media teams) • allow you to take part in interactive features of our services • tell you about changes to our services • contact you to provide customer or account support services • help keep our website and the Revolut Business app safe and secure	• Keeping to contracts and agreements between you and us • Legitimate interests (to be efficient about how we meet our obligations, keep to regulations that apply to us and to present content as effectively as possible for you) • Consent (where required by law)

What we use your personal data for	Our legal basis for using your personal data
Preparing anonymous statistical datasets We prepare anonymous statistical datasets about our customers' spending patterns: • for forecasting purposes • to understand how customers use Revolut Business • to comply with governmental requirements and requests These datasets may be shared internally or externally with others, including non-Revolut companies. We produce these reports using information about you and other customers. The information used and shared in this way is never personal data and you will never be identifiable from it. Anonymous statistical data cannot be linked back to you as an individual. For example, some countries have laws that require us to report spending statistics and how money enters or leaves each country. We will provide anonymised statistical information that explains the broad categories of merchants that Revolut Business customers in that country spend their money with. We will also provide information about how Revolut Business customers top up their accounts and transfer money. However, we will not provide any customer-level information. It will not be possible to identify any individual Revolut Business customer.	• Legitimate interests (to conduct research and analysis, including to produce statistical research and reports) • Legal obligations
Improving our products and services We use your personal data to: • understand how our customers are using our products and services • help us develop and improve our current products and services. For example, we may include you in a focus group to test and develop new products because we think you will be interested based on how you spend or use other Revolut Business products	• Legitimate interests (to understand how customers use our products so we can develop new products and improve the products we currently provide) develop, train and test our internal models. This helps us ensure our decisions are accurate, fair and effective This allows us to continue to provide products and services that our customers want to use.

Meeting our legal obligations, enforcing our rights, protecting our business and other legal uses We use your personal data: - to share it with other organisations (for example, government authorities, law enforcement authorities, tax authorities, fraud prevention agencies) - to share information with emergency services if we believe there is an immediate risk to your life or the life of another person - to send you service messages about your Revolut Business account (for example, updates to your account's terms and conditions or tips on how to protect yourself from the latest scams) - if this is necessary to meet our legal or regulatory obligations - to protect ourselves, including our rights, property, personnel or products - to enforce our rights we have under any agreement with you - to help prevent and fight harmful or unlawful behaviour and spam communications - in connection with legal claims - to help detect or prevent crime You can find out more in the Do you share my personal data with anyone else? section below. Sometimes, we are legally required to ask you to provide information about other people. For example, we might ask you to explain: - your relationship with somebody who pays money into your Revolut Business account	- Legitimate interests (for example, to protect Revolut during a legal dispute or send you anti-fraud communications) - Legal obligations - Consent (where we are required to collect your consent by law) - Vital interests (to protect your life or the life of another person in an emergency)

What we use your personal data for	Our legal basis for using your personal data
• how somebody got the money in the first place to pay it into your Revolut Business account If you, or your company, give us personal data about other people, it is your responsibility to ensure they understand how we will process their personal data.
Understanding if you need extra support We use your personal data to help understand if you need extra assistance. You can let us know if you need help by telling us through the Revolut Business app.	• Substantial public interest (if we process your sensitive personal data to keep to legal requirements that apply to us or to safeguard the economic well-being of certain individuals) • Consent (where we are required to collect your consent by law. For example, in some countries, we need your permission to record your vulnerability status) • Legitimate interests (to decide whether to refer you for specific enhanced support if you are a vulnerable customer)

6. Do you make automated decisions about me?

Depending on the Revolut Business products or services you use, we may make automated decisions about you. Some of these decisions are made using artificial intelligence without any initial human input.

We may also use technology to evaluate your personal circumstances and other factors to predict risks or outcomes. This is sometimes known as profiling. We do this for the efficient running of our services and to ensure decisions are fair, consistent and based on the right information.

If we make an automated decision or create a profile about you that significantly affects you, you have the right to request a manual review of that decision by a person. You can also share your perspective and challenge the outcome. For more information, please see the What are my rights? section below.

For example, we may make automated decisions about you that relate to:

Opening accounts

- KYB, anti-money laundering and sanctions checks
- identity and address checks

Detecting fraud

- monitoring your Revolut Business account to detect fraud and financial crime

Restricting or closing accounts

- deciding, or helping to decide, whether to lock, restrict, or close your Revolut account if we detect fraud, financial crime or a breach of our Business Terms (or other relevant terms and conditions)

Our legal basis is one or more of the following:

- keeping to contracts between you and us
- legal obligations
- legitimate interests (to develop and improve how we deal with financial crime and meet our legal responsibilities)
- consent (where we are required to collect your consent by law)

7. Do you run credit checks on me?

We will share your personal data with credit reference agencies, or other providers of credit information, to:

- confirm details you provide when applying for a Revolut Business account or specific Revolut products
- make an assessment about whether to accept a Revolut Business or specific Revolut Business product application

The personal data we share with, and receive from, credit reference agencies (or other providers of credit information) will vary depending on the country you live in. We will provide full details during the relevant application process.

Our legal basis is one or more of the following:

- consent (where we are required to collect your consent by law)
- legal obligations
- keeping to contracts and agreements between you and us (where you apply for a Revolut Business account or specific Revolut Business product)

8. How do you use my personal data for marketing?

If you sign up to use Revolut Business, and where national laws allow, we will assume you want to be contacted by post, push notification, in-app chat, email, phone call and text message with information about Revolut products, services, offers and promotions. Where national laws require us to get your consent to send direct marketing communications, we will do so in advance. We may use the personal data we have collected about you, and generative artificial intelligence, to tailor our offers to you.

You can tell us you don't want to hear from us at any time. Just click on the unsubscribe links on any marketing message we send you or, if we call you, ask us not to contact you again.

We won't pass your details on to any organisations outside the Revolut group of companies for their marketing purposes without your permission. You can find out more in the Do you share my personal data with anyone else? section.

Our legal basis is:

- consent (where we are required by law to collect your consent)
- legitimate interests (to send you marketing and to provide information more relevant to your interests)

9. What are my rights?

If you are an Authorised Cardholder or customer of a company that holds a Revolut Business account, the company, rather than Revolut, is primarily responsible for helping you with your request.

Your right	What it means
You have the right to be told about how we use your personal data	We explain how we use your personal data in: ✓ this privacy notice ✓ standalone notices we provide for specific products and processes ✓ through 'just in time' in-app notifications
You have the right to ask us for a copy of your personal data	If you ask, we will provide a copy of the personal data we hold about you. We can't give you any personal data about other people, personal data which is linked to an ongoing criminal or fraud investigation, or personal data which is linked to settlement negotiations with you. We also won't provide you with any communication we've had with our legal advisers.
You can ask us to correct your personal data if you think it's wrong	You can have incomplete or inaccurate personal data corrected. Before we update your file, we may need to check the accuracy of the new personal data you have provided.
You can ask us to delete your personal data	You can ask us to delete your personal data if: ✓ there's no good reason for us to continue using it ✓ you gave us consent (permission) to use your personal data and you have now withdrawn that consent ✓ you have objected to us using your personal data ✓ we have used your personal data unlawfully ✓ the law requires us to delete your personal data Just to let you know, we may not be able to agree to your request. As a regulated financial services provider, we must keep certain customer personal data even when you ask us to delete it (we've explained this in more detail below). We may not be able to delete your entire file because these regulatory responsibilities take priority. We will always let you know if we can't delete your personal data.

You can object to us processing your personal data for marketing purposes	You can tell us to stop using your personal data, including profiling, for marketing
You can object to us processing other personal data (if we are using it for legitimate interests)	If our legal basis for using your personal data is 'legitimate interests' and you disagree with us using it, you can object. However, if there is an overriding reason why we need to use your personal data, we will not accept your request. If you object to us using personal data which we need to provide our services, we may need to close your Revolut Business account as we won't be able to provide the services.
You can ask us to restrict how we use your personal data	You can ask us to suspend using your personal data if: ✓ you want us to investigate whether it is accurate ✓ our use of your personal data is unlawful but you do not want us to delete it ✓ we no longer need your personal data, but you want us to continue holding it for you in connection with a legal claim ✓ you have objected to us using your personal data (see above), but we need to check whether we have an overriding reason to use it
You can ask us to transfer personal data to you or another company	If we can, and are allowed to do so under regulatory requirements, we will provide your personal data in a structured, commonly used, machine-readable format.

Your right	What it means
You can withdraw your permission	If you have given us any consent we need to use your personal data, you can withdraw your consent at any time by sending an email to dpo@revolut.com. (Please note, it will have been lawful for us to use the personal data up to the point you withdraw your permission)
You can ask us to carry out a human review of an automated decision we make about you	If we make an automated decision about you that significantly affects you, you can ask us to carry out a manual review of this decision.

Your ability to exercise these rights will depend on a number of factors. Sometimes, we won't be able to agree to your request (for example, if we have a legitimate reason for not doing so or the right does not apply to the particular information we hold about you).

10. How do I exercise my rights?

If you are an Authorised Cardholder or customer of the company that holds the Revolut Business account, please contact that company.

If you are an Account Owner or Authorised User, you can send us an email at dpo@revolut.com.

If you are an Authorised Cardholder who was asked to submit identification documents or 'selfie' images or videos for our KYB checks, you can also email us at dpo@revolut.com. However, we can only respond to requests:

- about the personal data we have for those checks
- to opt out from receiving direct marketing communications

For security reasons, we can't deal with your request if we are not sure of your identity, so we may ask you for proof of your ID.

If a third party exercises one of these rights on your behalf, we may need to ask for proof that a third party has been validly authorised to act on your behalf.

When you exercise one of these rights, it may take us up to one month to implement your changes.

Revolut will usually not charge you a fee when you exercise your rights. However, we are allowed by law to charge a reasonable fee or refuse to act on your request if it is manifestly unfounded or excessive.

If you're unhappy with how we've handled your request you can complain to your local data protection authority. In the EEA, our cross-border data protection authority is the Lithuanian State Data Protection Inspectorate (website).

11. Do you share my personal data with anyone else?

Revolut group companies

We share your personal data within the Revolut group of companies to:

- provide you with the best service
- protect you, other customers and our systems from fraud or harmful behaviour
- facilitate you quickly signing up to use other Revolut Business products
- improve existing, or develop new, products or services
- send you information about Revolut products and services we think you'll be interested in hearing about

Suppliers

The table below explains which suppliers we normally share your personal data with:

Type of supplier	Why we share your personal data
Suppliers who provide us with IT, artificial intelligence, payment and delivery services	To help us provide our services to you
Our banking and financial services partners and payments networks, including Visa and Mastercard	To help us provide our services to you. This includes banking and lending partners, banking intermediaries and international payment service providers In particular, we share your personal data (including your name, contact details, and card details) with Visa and Mastercard so you can use the 'Click to Pay' service. For more information, see:

Partners who help to provide our services

We may share your personal data with our partners to provide you, or the company that holds the Revolut Business account, with certain requested services. For example, we will share personal data with:

- acquiring partners who help us to provide you with payment services
- deposit taking banks who help us to provide you with savings accounts

We'll only share your personal data in this way if:

- you, or the company that holds the Revolut Business account, have asked for the relevant service or it is provided as part of our membership plans
- necessary to support you if you have a query or complaint about a product or service provided by our partner

Occasionally, we may test if a new product or partnership is viable. We only share limited data for a short time for these trials.

From time to time, we may work with other partners to offer co-branded services or promotional offers, and we will share some of your personal data with those partners.

We will always make sure you understand how we and our partners process your personal data for these purposes.

Credit reference agencies

As set out at the Do you run credit checks on me? section, if you apply for a Revolut Business account or specific product, we may share your personal data with credit reference agencies.

Other third parties

We may share your personal data with other third parties where this is necessary to facilitate you receiving payments to your Revolut Business account.

For legal reasons

We also share your personal data with other financial institutions, financial services companies, government authorities, law enforcement authorities, emergency services, tax authorities, companies and fraud prevention agencies to check your identity, investigate or protect against suspected fraud, keep to tax laws, anti-money laundering laws, or any other laws, and confirm that you are eligible to use our products and services.

If fraud is detected, you could be refused certain services by Revolut or others.

We may also need to share your personal data with other third party organisations or authorities:

- if we have to do so under any law or regulation
- if we sell our business
- in connection with suspected or actual criminal or fraud investigations
- to enforce our rights (and those of our customers or others)
- in connection with legal claims
- to protect your vital interests or those of another person (for example, in a medical emergency)

Social media and advertising companies

When we use social media for marketing purposes, information about you, or your company, may be shared with our social media platform partners so they can check if you or your company also hold an account with them. If you do, we may ask the social media provider, to:

- help us to understand and measure the effectiveness of our online advertising
- use your personal data to send our adverts to you or your company, because we think that you, or your employer, might be interested in a new Revolut product or service

- not send you our adverts, because the marketing relates to a service that you, or your employer, already use
- send our adverts to companies that have a similar profile to your company

An example of how we may use social media for marketing purposes is through Facebook's 'Custom Audience' tool. Read more about these terms.

We may share your personal data with our advertising partners in the ways described above, but the personal data is hashed before we send it, and the advertising partner we share it with is only allowed to use that hashed personal data in the ways described above.

Our legal basis is:

- legitimate interests (to ensure Revolut's advertising is as effective as possible).

You can contact us at any time by emailing dpo@revolut.com, if you don't want us to share your personal data for advertising purposes.

Remember you can also manage your marketing preferences directly with any social media provider that you have an account with.

Where you ask us to share your personal data

Where you direct us to share your personal data with a third party, we may do so. For example, you may authorise third parties to act on your behalf (such as a lawyer or accountant). We may need to ask for proof that a third party has been validly authorised to act on your behalf.

We will share your personal data with other companies (through the Revolut Business API) when you switch this function on.

12. Will my personal data go outside of Europe?

As we provide an international service, we may need to transfer your personal data outside of the EEA in order for us to provide our services.

We may send your personal data outside of the EEA to:

- keep to global legal and regulatory requirements
- provide ongoing support services
- fraud prevention agencies, regulators or law enforcement authorities
- enable us to provide you with products or services you have requested

If we transfer your personal data to another country that does not offer a standard of data protection equivalent to the EEA, we will make sure that your personal data is sufficiently protected. For example, we will make sure that a contract with strict data protection safeguards is in place before we transfer your personal data. In some cases, you may be entitled to ask us for a copy of this contract.

If you would like more information, please contact us by sending an email to dpo@revolut.com.

13. How do you protect my personal data?

We recognise the importance of protecting and managing your personal data. Any personal data we process will be treated with the utmost care and security. This section sets out some of the security measures we have in place.

We use a variety of organisational and technical measures to:

- maintain the confidentiality, availability and integrity of your personal data
- make sure your personal data is not improperly used or disclosed

We have detailed information security and data protection policies which our employees are required to follow when they handle your personal data. Our employees receive data protection and information security training. Electronic data and databases are stored on secure computer systems with access controls in place to limit physical, system and information access to only authorised employees.

Revolut has strict policies in place that control how we share your personal data with other companies. Before sharing personal data with any company, we thoroughly:

- vet the company in advance
- assess the security controls the company has in place to protect your personal data

While we take all reasonable steps to ensure that your personal data will be kept secure from unauthorised access, we cannot guarantee it will be secure during transmission by you to our app, a website or other services we may provide. We use HTTPS (HTTP Secure), where the communication protocol is encrypted through Transport Layer Security for secure communication over networks, for all our app, web and payment-processing services.

You are responsible for keeping your Revolut Business account secure by keeping your passwords, PINs, and one-time passcodes private. Do not share this information with anyone, as it may allow them access to your Revolut Business account and personal data. Remember, Revolut will never ask you for these details through phone calls, emails, or texts.

When you use our public services, which includes our social network accounts and the Revolut Community forum, do not share any personal data that you don't want to be seen, collected or used by other customers, as this personal data will become publicly available.

14. How long will you keep my personal data for?

We will keep your personal data:

- for as long as necessary to achieve the original purpose we collected it for
- where we have a legitimate interest in doing so (for example, to manage our business risks or to defend legal claims)
- in line with relevant laws

We are required to keep certain personal data for specific time periods by KYB, anti-money laundering, banking and e-money laws. These time periods vary from country to country.

In the EEA, we will generally keep your personal data for no more than 10 years after our business relationship ends

Revolut has detailed policies and procedures in place to ensure we comply with these requirements.

We may keep your personal data for a longer time period because of a potential or ongoing court claim or another legal reason.

15. How will you keep me updated about how you use my personal data?

If we change the way we use your personal data, we will update this notice and, if appropriate, let you know by email, through the Revolut Business app or through our website.

16. Do you use cookies?

We use cookies to analyse how you use our website. Please read our Cookies Policy for more information about cookies.

We also use pixels or web beacons in the direct marketing emails that we send to you. These pixels track whether our email was delivered and opened, and whether links within the email were clicked. They also allow us to collect information such as your IP address, browser, email client type and other similar details. We use this information to measure the performance of our email campaigns, and for analytics.
